DRIVING PERFORMANCE THROUGH FEEDBACK

24 OCTOBER 2023

DEADLINE TO REGISTER
25 September 2023

OVERVIEW

Withholding constructive feedback is like sending a person on a long and complicated hike without a compass. Feedback is a leadership tool and is one of the most vital stepping stones to a manager's professional journey. Yet most managers are apprehensive in giving constructive feedback as it is deemed as “negative” and “painful” for both parties.

This is because most of our own experiences have been focused around “criticism” rather than portraying it as positive/reinforcing feedback which is really intended as a developmental tool.

When practised at the right time and effectively, it can help to avert and/or minimise creating a ‘blame culture’ which if not checked, can adversely impact the organisation's business and targets. This programme is one out of five of the Toolkit for Young Leaders Series. The series is a set of workshops curated to develop the necessary skills to become a more effective leader, while also helping your team to grow.
